Navy housing residents air concerns with privatization

By RICHARD ALEXANDER

Navalog editor

Representatives from the Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport Housing Office, Naval Facilities Engineering Command, and GMH Military Housing, the Navy Region Northeast's private partner in the public-private venture (PPV) of Navy military housing, held four town-hall style briefs last week in Building 1112, at Fort Adams and Greene Lane.

At the Sept. 9 brief at Building 1112, about 40 senior enlisted members from the Naval War College and NAVSTA Fire Department personnel raised several concerns, such as non-military tenants in Navy housing, renovations and maintenance, security and leases.

Capt. Robert McLaughlin, Commanding Officer, NAVSTA, said the goal of PPV is to increase the quality of Navy housing.

"Will there be some problems initially?" he asked rhetorically. "Yes, probably. But we are trying to improve the housing. I truly believe this. The Navy is not abandoning housing. We will still have a Navy housing liaison office. The Navy will stay involved and we will still collect customer service satisfaction forms."

Dave Coleman, Navy Region Northeast Housing Office, said military housing privatization is mandated by presidential order and the Department of Defense. Military construction money and maintenance money is getting more difficult to obtain, while the quality of military housing is decaying.

Michael Dagostino, area community manager for GMH, said GMH has the PPV contract for military housing at 10 Army bases and eight Navy bases.

GMH will take over more than 1,300 units in Navy Newport with a 50-year contract on Nov. 1. Over a six year period, it will build, renovate, demolish and sell units in nearly all Newport housing areas. The majority of the units being sold are in the Anchorage housing area in Middletown. Of the 390 units in Anchorage, 300 will be sold.

Phillip Hakey, Naval Facilities, Atlantic, and the PPV project manager, said the developer's plans for the surplus property would be regulated by the Middletown Zoning Board and Town Council.

"The Navy will be involved right from the beginning on disposal of property," Hakey said.

Coleman assured the residents that neighborhood integrity would be retained, and buffer zones, gates and fences will separate the military housing area from any abutting commercial, residential, or municipal venture.

Community centers, playgrounds, walking trails, and perhaps swimming pools are envisioned in the remaining parcel of land, which will be the northern-most end of the current Anchorage property.

In response to several questions about the upkeep of aging units, Dagostino said the landlord will have a maintenance staff in place and a 24-hour emergency hotline will be established. He expects a routine maintenance call would be answered in a day.

Rent will equal the servicemember's Basic Allowance for Housing (BAH) With Dependents, which would include $10,000 property insurance and all utilities except telephone, cable television and Internet access.

If two occupants are receiving BAH in the household, the higher, senior rate would be collected. BAH will not be calculated into household income, and will not affect eligibility for state subsidized school lunch programs, for those who stay in Navy housing.

Two pets per household are allowed, although they must be registered at the Community Management Office and Veterinary Clinic. Housing newcomers with certain aggressive canine breeds will be required to carry proof of $100,000 liability insurance.

Utilities usage will be monitored and averaged over the first year of the lease to establish a benchmark, Dagostino said. Excess utility use of the succeeding year will incur a surcharge. If energy saving is practiced, the tenant would receive a rebate.

Effective Nov. 1, Kathryn Oberacker will direct the Community Management Office for GMH at 369 Greene Lane, Middletown. It will be open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. The phone will be 846-8877.

NACC renamed for hospitalman wounded in war

The Naval Ambulatory Care Center, Newport will dedicate and name its clinic in honor of Medal of Honor winner Hospitalman Richard Dewert today at 2 p.m.

The ceremonies will be held outside the facility, Building 23, off Third Street.

The guest speaker will be Rear Adm. Kathleen Martin, Deputy Surgeon General of the Navy.

Hospitalman Dewert, a native of Taunton, Mass., was killed in action on April 5, 1951, while administering first aid to injured Marines during the Korean War.

Born in 1931, Dewert enlisted in the Navy in 1948 and served with the Marines as they cleared North Korean guerrillas from rural areas of South Korea and helped drive them beyond the Thirty-Eight Parallel.

According to his Medal of Honor citation on April 5, 1951, while with the 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines during an attack on Chinese Communist forces, Dewert persistently and in spite of his own wounds, moved through fireswept ground to aid fallen Marines.

Hospitalman Dewert was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor for heroism after being killed while administering first aid to an injured comrade.

33 naval reservists with IBU 21 activated

By JO1 STEVE BANSBACH
REDCOM Northeast, Deputy PAO

PROVIDENCE — As part of the mobilization authorized by President Bush in support of Operations Noble Eagle, Enduring Freedom, and Iraqi Freedom, 33 naval reservists based out of the Navy and Marine Corps Reserve Center here have been activated for a period of one year.

The activated Naval Reservists live in Rhode Island,

Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maine and New Hampshire.

The reservists were processed for mobilization on Sept. 7, before being sent for further stateside processing in Groton, Conn.

The 33 reserve personnel are assigned to Inshore Boat Unit 21 (IBU 21), which provides a rapidly deployable, armed small boat capability, to support expeditionary warfare security operations, by U.S. naval forces, in littoral regions.

Sept. 11 victims at Pentagon eulogized

Naval War College students and staff attended solemn ceremonies for Patriot Day last Friday to remember 10 alumni and students who died in the terrorist attack on the Pentagon on Sept. 11, 2001.

Cmdr. Holbrook

For one student, Cmdr. Stuart Holbrook, College of Naval Warfare, the horror of the day was more personal. He recalled his special connection with one victim, Cmdr. Dan Shanower.

Shanower and Holbrook were stationed together in Japan and became good friends. After three years they went their separate ways in their careers, only to be reunited unexpectedly in Hawaii.

Holbrook's son, Davis, was diagnosed with leukemia and the family went to the Naval Hospital in Pearl Harbor.

"Out of nowhere, Dan Shanower showed up," Holbrook said, "He made our lives a lot brighter, and I'll never forget him for that."

Shortly after Shanower died on Sept. 11, Davis also died from cancer.

Holbrook said his daughter worried that there was no one in heaven to look after Davis. Then she remembered Cmdr. Shanower.

"Mr. Shanower will be there to look after him," she told her father.

"I'd like to think that's true," he said.

Feature guest speaker, Rear Adm. Jacob L. Shuford, President of the Naval War College, spoke about the war on terrorism.

"Each and every one of us here today is engaged in this great struggle," he said. "Many in uniform have come from the battlefields, and after a year of professional development, will again face-down this formidable enemy both at home and on foreign shores.

"Others will continue to contribute to our ultimate victory though their efforts here at the College. And some, like the 10 VICTIMS, Page 10

Hispanics called part of national tapestry

Lt. Jaime Hernandez, a student at the College of Naval Command and Staff, Naval War College, will be the keynote speaker at Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport's observance of Hispanic Heritage Month on Sept. 21 at 10:30 a.m. in the Building 690 Atrium.

The theme for 2004 is: Hispanic Americans: Enhancing the National Tapestry. The message from the Chief of Naval Operations for the 2004 Hispanic Heritage Month observance, Sept. 15 to Oct. 15, reads in part: "The history of the U.S. Navy is intertwined with the rich heritage and sacrifice of Hispanic Americans on behalf of this nation who have served bravely and honorably in every war and conflict since the American Revolution.

"With more than 37 million people in the United States who are of Hispanic origin, this proud tradition of service has an even brighter future in today's diverse Navy. More than 30,000 Hispanic Americans today serve proudly in the tradition of generations who served before."

Lt. Hernandez's presentation is open to all military and civilian employees of Navy Newport. NAVSTA Newport's Equal Employment Opportunity Committee is the sponsor.

Uniform changes approved

WASHINGTON (NNS) — Task Force Uniform (TFU) has announced some significant changes to the Navy Uniform Regulations, which were recently approved by Chief of Naval Operations (CNO) Adm. Vern Clark.

These changes are among the first initiatives being rolled out as a result of Task Force Uniform. The Uniform Regulation changes were made based on fleet input from interviews with Sailors, command site visits, comprehensive research and data collected from a Navywide uniform survey. The survey collected feedback from more than 40,000 Sailors throughout the fleet.

The approved changes include women's skirts, identification badges, civilian bags, women's handbags, communication devices and breast insignia.

One of the changes effective immediately will be the authorized wearing or carrying of civilian bags while in uniform. This includes briefcases, gym bags, backpacks, suitcases and garment bags. The specific guidance on wear and appearance for each is outlined in NAVADMIN 209/04.

Another revision that is effective immediately concerns the wearing of wireless communication devices, such as a cell phone, PDA or pager for official business, while in uniform.

The device cannot be visible from the front, and must be worn on the belt, aft of the right or left elbow. Specific guidance and further details on the proper wearing and use of these devices is contained in NAVADMIN 209/04.

Female Sailors may now carry civilian handbags while in uniform, but must meet the specific criteria and be worn in the manner prescribed in NAVADMIN 209/04. Women's uniform handbags are now an optional uniform item, and will no longer be a prescribed seabag item or issued at recruit training as of Oct. 1.

In addition to the handbag, women's skirts will also be an optional uniform component as of Oct. 1, 2004.

Quality home care provided for children in Navy housing

By JOY CHRISTMAS
NAVSTA Public Affairs Staff

Quality childcare is a major concern of working parents everywhere and Navy Newport is no exception. Responding to the unique dynamics of the military family, the Navy Child Development Home (CDH) Program at Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport strives to satisfy those needs.

CDH offers affordable, quality childcare in a loving, learning environment. Evolving from the slogan, "the Navy takes care of its own," NAVSTA has been providing highly skilled home care in military housing since 1989.

Kerry Ragno, Naval Station Newport's Child Development Program administrator, said CDH is an alternative to the center-based care program. Providers offer the professionalism of a traditional childcare facility, but offer care outside the normal workday/week.

"CDH offers care for children birth to age 12 that is flexible to the needs of the individual child," said Ragno, who oversees the NAVSTA Child Development Center, and Fort Adams and Coddington Cove preschool programs. "Most providers set hours with parents based on their (client) needs and their own personal responsibilities."

She said there are providers who offer care on weekends, holidays and overnight, which is especially accommodating

Announcements

ITT closed today only

The Information, Ticket and Travel Office will be closed today as the staff member will be escorting a trip to Nova Scotia. The office will reopen on Tuesday, Sept. 21 at 10:30 a.m.

TRICARE period for newborn enrollment to be reduced

Current TRICARE policy states, a newborn/adoptee is "deemed enrolled" in TRICARE Prime for the first 120 days from the date of birth and/or adoption.

Effective Jan. 1, 2005, the TRICARE "deemed enrolled" period will be reduced from 120 days to 60 days from the date of birth and/or official adoption date. This change will bring TRICARE policy into alignment with managed care industry standards and potentially improve continuity of care. Therefore, beginning Jan. 1, 2005, beneficiaries are strongly encouraged to complete enrollment application formally enrolling the child in TRICARE Prime within the 60-day time frame.

All for Fall Fest targets families

The first All for Fall Festival at Naval Station Newport is planned for Saturday, Oct. 2 at 4 p.m. at Carr Point.

The festival will feature pony rides, hayrides, pumpkin painting, candy apples, sack races, the Toe Jam Puppet Band, Burt the Raccoon, face painting, crafts and more.

It will be followed by the Country Mile Band and bonfire. Food, beverage, wine and beer concessions will also be available. The entrance fee is $5 per person and children under 3 are free. Advance entrance wristbands are on sale at the ITT Office in Building 656.

For more information, call MWR Special Events at 841-4038.

Naval Station slates Duathalon

The first Naval Station Newport Duathalon will be held Saturday, Oct. 2, from 8 to 10 a.m.

It will feature a 10-mile bike ride and 3.1 mile run, with start and finish at Carr Point. There is a $10 entrance fee, which also covers the entrance fee to the All for Fall Festival at Carr Point beginning at 4 p.m.

Age groups are 13 to 17 (male and female), 18 to 39 (male and female) and 40-and-over (male and female).

Contestants may register at Gym 109 Monday to Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., or by 7:45 a.m. the morning of the event.

The first 100 applicants will receive a free event t-shirt.

For more information, call Gym 109 at 841-7196.

Choristers seek new members

It is not too late to join the Newport Navy Choristers for their 2004-2005 musical season.

The Choristers is a mixed singing group open to all active duty, reserve, retired military and civilian personnel and their spouses and family members over 16 years of age.

The Choristers have been performing to raise money for Newport area charities for over 50 years. Although experience is helpful, it is not necessary and auditions are required.

Rehearsals are Tuesday evenings at 6:15 p.m. in the Quinn Lecture Room at the Naval War College.

Deadline for new members is Sept. 21.

For more information, call Steve Larson, chairman, 848-6623, 847-4256 or musical director JoAnn Loewenthal at 423-3523.

NLSO revises appointment hours

Legal assistance appointments are available on Tuesdays and Thursdays between 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., and Thursday evenings between 6 and 8.

Appointments are also available during certain weekends of every month. Please call 841-3766 x200 to schedule your legal assistance appointment, or for further information. Notarizations and powers of attorney are available without appointment Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Blue Angels visit Nantucket

NANTUCKET, Mass. — The U.S. Navy's Flight Demonstration Team, the Blue Angels, will make their only appearance in New England this year as the featured attraction at the Nantucket Air Show on Nantucket Island off Massachusetts this weekend.

General admission is free, and parking is $5 per vehicle.

The show celebrates the last 75 years of flight and will also feature demonstrations by other aerobatic teams, military flybys, a wing-walking exhibition and static displays of war birds and vintage aircraft from the 1930s to the present.

An estimated 15 million people view the Blue Angels' finely executed demonstration of midair maneuvers and vertical rolls each year and the fleet is in high demand for appearances at air shows around the country.

The leader/commanding officer, Cmdr. Russ Bartlett, spent part of his childhood on Nantucket. He led the way for the squadron's island appearance.

"It's going to be an absolute treat for me to lead the Blue Angels flight demonstration over Nantucket," said Bartlett.

The squadron will consist of 12 to 16 officers. The jets, Boeing F/A-18 Hornets, are capable of speeds up to 700 mph (just under Mach 1) during air shows and may perform maneuvers up to 15,000 feet and as low as 50 feet, depending on weather conditions and visibility.

Gates open at 11 a.m. on Sept. 18 and 19 and Sunday, rain or shine.

Choristers still need new voices

New members are still being sought for the 2004-2005 musical season for the Newport Navy Choristers. Rehearsals began Sept. 7 and will be held each Tuesday at Quinn Lecture Room at the Naval War College.

Deadline for new members is Sept. 21.

The Newport Navy Choristers is a mixed singing group open to all active duty, reserve and retired military and Department of Defense personnel and their family members over 16 years of age. Auditions and experience is not necessary for the main chorus.

The group performs concerts throughout the year to benefit local charitable organizations. Since its founding in 1953, the Choristers have raised over $300,000 for area groups.

For additional information, please contact chairman Steve Larson at 847-4256, or JoAnn Loewenthal, Musical Director, at 423-3523.

In addition, the Choristers' website is www.newportnavy-choristers.org

20 in new khaki uniforms today

By RICHARD ALEXANDER
Navalog editor

Twenty first class petty officers, in Navy Newport and Naval Reserve units across New England, changed their uniforms last night from white to khaki.

The traditional ceremony of pinning anchor collar devices on crisp new khaki uniforms took place in Building 1112, Naval Station Newport, last night. Guest speaker was Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport Command Master Chief William Stoller.

Many spouses, parents, children, friends and fellow chiefs participated in pinning the new chiefs, as commanding officers presented each of their new CPOs with frocking and advancement letters.

The new chiefs began their transformation to the senior enlisted ranks six weeks ago, taking on a series of community service tasks, classroom instruction and team-building exercises, including PT before dawn.

Master Chief Stoller said the chiefs are the Navy's middle management force, and four CPO Core Competencies are stressed. The CPOs must be accountable for leading Sailors to complete tasks, developing enlisted members and junior officers, communicating core values, standards and information of the Navy; and supporting with loyalty the chain of command and their fellow CPOs.

"It has been a challenging experience," said CPO-selectee Jeffrey Craig, a gas systems turbine technician at the Surface Warfare Officers School Command.

One highlight was a trip to the frigate USS Constitution (Old Ironsides) in Boston for the annual turnaround. The Navy heritage experience was memorable, Craig said.

Craig was among six from the Newport area who joined selectees from across the region in a community service project moving desks and other furniture into Boston public schools.

Craig sees the selectee experience as an end and a beginning. "At times it has been aggravating and frustrating to this point," he said. "But this will all prepare me to handle whatever happens in a chief's life."

During the past six weeks, the prospective chiefs collectively participated in various military and civic activities. During Indoctrination Week, classes were held at the Senior Enlisted Academy. The selectees received instruction on the history and traditions of the chief petty officer, communication skills, Navy programs and Navy heritage.

The also participated in several community service projects.

One project was doing painting, yard work and odd jobs at the Rhode Island Veterans Home in Bristol on Sept. 8.

Last Monday the selectees fanned out along Stringham Road to clear vegetation along the sidewalk from the Melville Housing Area to Burma Road.

On a hot Aug. 14 more than a dozen selectees turned out to clear brush and overgrowth at a Tiverton historical cemetery.

In late August the selectees spent part of the weekend aboard the battleship Massachusetts in Fall River. The slept in berthing spaces, and cleaned the ship's gun mounts and painted other hardware in a "preservation" project. Last Saturday, Patriot Day, they returned to the warship for onboard ceremonies to mark the third anniversary of Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks.

For a fundraisers, the selectees held a Chief Petty Officer Association yard sale in Coddington Cove Housing on Aug. 7 and 8; and were auctioned-off as caddies at Laurel Lane Golf Course in West Kingston on Aug. 31.

Master Chief Stoller said the selectees were also required to take a 40-hour online course-work developed by the business management organization, The Ninth House. It covered effective management, situational leadership, hiring practices and encouragement of subordinates. The chiefs are:

brave souls we commemorate today, will pay the ultimate price to ensure the freedoms we cherish in this great country of ours.

"I ask each of you, as you leave this ceremony to remember — and respect — the sacrifices of others.... to re-double your commitment to see the battle through to its ultimate conclusion."

Adm. Shuford and Capt. James P. Murray, dean of students, laid a wreath at the foot of the Patriots Memorial made from a limestone piece of the Pentagon.

The Newport Navy Choristers sang a musical selection, and Chaplain (Cmdr.) William K. Fauntleroy gave the blessing.

To conclude the ceremony, Taps were played by Musician First Class Craig Shadday, Navy Band Northeast.

ForceNet — Enabling 21st century warfare.

Sea Trial — The process of innovation..

Sea Enterprise — Resourcing tomorrow's fleet.

Sea Warrior — Investing in Sailors and maximizing human capital.

He continued the seminar by detailing and outlining the Naval Leadership Competency model, which includes "Accomplishing the Mission," "Leading People," "Leading Change," "Working with People," and "Resource Stewardship."

Master Chief Pierce also discussed the future of Navy-wide advancement examinations transitioning from paper to multimedia with scheduled dates for the first multimedia rating exams in March 2005 for third class aerographer's mates, September 2005 for first, second and third class musicians.

Napier closed out the seminar with a brief on the selection board process and effective evaluation and fitness report writing. He discussed common attributes of at sea performance, challenging out of rate assignments, command-wide collateral duties, MCPON guidance and "sailorization"— what is being done to help other Sailors with advancement, retention and education. Napier strongly recommends Sailor write their own evaluation, commenting heavily on leadership and management ability and maintain personnel service records up-to-date.

The seminar was well received as audience questions came from all directions. SNA provided free pizza and soda to all participants.

Incze outsails Rhodes

ON NARRAGANSETT BAY — Mike Incze took advantage of Herb Rommel's slow start to win the recent Rhodes Class race off Coasters' Harbor Island during the Wednesday night series, Sept. 8.

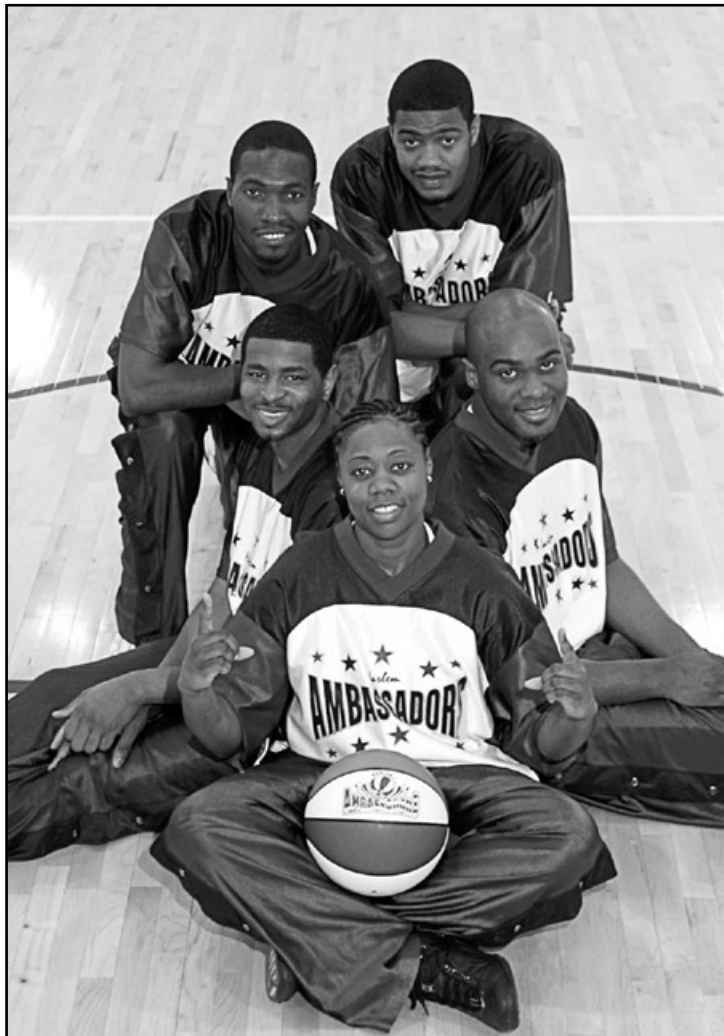

Sailing course N5 under a southeast wind and an ebb tide, Incze took an early lead in the short windward leg from 11 to 12 and was first around the mark with Mike Arsenault in second.

Seth Moyer, quick to fly his chute, passed Arsenault and was then challenged by Rommel.

Rommel managed to pass on the outside, but Moyer continued to pester on Rommel's stern during the mile-long run to race mark 15 at Jamestown, keeping Rommel from getting close to Incze.

Rommel went wide to the left as Incze kept toward the middle, gaining enough to finish 10 seconds behind the winner.

Moyer was third.

NAPS tops Dean on final field goal

By ENSIGN S. BRAZIER
NAPS Football Staff

FRANKLIN, Mass. — The Naval Academy Preparatory School (NAPS) football team raised its season record to 3-0 by defeating Dean College, 20-17, in a hard-driving defensive effort Sept. 11.

In its best defensive game so far, the Rams' defense produced three interceptions and held Dean to 72 yards rushing.

Early in the game, Navy defensive back Rashawn King intercepted his first of two passes for the day. During the Dean Bulldogs' next possession, Dean's punter kicked a 6-yarder from their 24-yard line.

Successfully taking advantage of the great field position, NAPS running back, Karlos Whittaker had a 31-yard touchdown run.

As the offenses switched in and out because of great defensive efforts on both sides, Dean's offense continued to struggle and Navy's defense stiffened.

As the first quarter continued, King got his second interception of the day. With tremendous blocking, he intercepted the ball on the 20-yard line and returned to the Bulldogs' 15-yard line.

In the second quarter, the Bulldogs recovered a muffed punt return on their 29-yard line and on this drive; the Bulldogs completed a 29-yard touchdown pass to even the score at 7-7 after the extra point kick.

Before the half, NAPS failed at a 37-yard field goal.

On the first play of the second half, NAPS defensive back Ketric Buffin returned the opening kickoff for a touchdown.

On the Bulldogs' next possession, Buffin intercepted a pass and returned it for seven yards, but during the next play, the Bulldogs intercepted a pass to get the ball back.

After a successful offensive drive by NAPS, and only three seconds left in the game, Tigani was successful at a 27-yard field goal.

After a bye week, NAPS will face the Naval Academy junior varsity on Friday, Sept. 24.

NAVSTA Duathlon welcomes all hands

If you like bike racing and run regularly, then the first Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport Duathlon may be just what you need to show your competitiveness.

The Duathlon, Saturday, Oct. 2, from 8 to 10 a.m. will feature a 10-mile bike ride and 3.1 mile run.

The start and finish at Carr Point on Burma Road, Middletown.

There is a $10 entrance fee, which also covers the entrance fee to the All for Fall Festival, also at Carr Point, beginning at 4 p.m.

Age groups are 13 to 17 (male and female), 18 to 39 (male and female) and 40-and-over (male and female).

Contestants may register at Gym 109 Monday to Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., or by 7:45 a.m. the morning of the event.

The first 100 applicants will receive a free event t-shirt.

For more information, call Gym 109 at 841-7196.

After the Duathlon, bring the family to the first All for Fall Festival.

The festival will feature pony rides, hayrides, pumpkin painting, candy apples, sack races, the Toe Jam Puppet Band, Burt the Raccoon, face painting, crafts and more.

It will be followed by the Country Mile Band and bonfire. Food, beverage, wine and beer concessions will also be available.

The entrance fee is $5 per person and children under 3 are free. Advance entrance wristbands are on sale at the ITT Office in Building 656.

to those on the security force.

Ragno said it's a myth that home-based care is substandard to center-based care. CDH providers take the same training requirements as those in the center, and beyond. It includes safety; fire prevention; food sanitation; nutrition and meal planning; child guidance techniques; toys, equipment and materials; and child abuse prevention and reporting. Once certified, providers continue to be monitored through unannounced home visits and must attend on-going training provided monthly.

All Navy childcare providers undergo extensive criminal background checks.

Lourdes Huacahe, a former provider in the NAVSTA Childcare Development Center (CDC), recently completed additional training for certification for the CDH Program.

"I enjoyed caring for the children in the center," said Huacahe, holding 8-month-old Macie Frank. "But I love the opportunity this program offers to care for them one-on-one in the home setting."

Huacahe said that most of children usually feel comfortable right away because their own home may have a similar floor plan and it feels familiar to them.

Filling out the sign-in/sign-out sheet, Amanda Navarro, said she is more than pleased with the childcare accommodation for her daughter, 5-year-old Jalina Perez.

"It is really good compared to out in town," she said. "I love the in-home setting. The provider (Huacahe) is personable and is willing to work with you around the child's schedule, instead of the center's schedule.

The number of children under a provider's care is determined by age — the younger the child the fewer children. The maximum is six children, including the care providers own children

Childcare services are also available for special needs children, and Department of Defense civilians.

The center has an extensive waiting list for infants and toddler. Ragno said CDH is a wonderful alternative.

As self-employers, providers negotiate their own fees, but most model their fees after those charged at the center, the maximum being $135 per child. The same subsidies available to active duty military personnel with children under age 3 in the center is available to active duty members who elect to use the CDH Program.

Presently, there are five certified CDH providers operating in three housing areas. Ragno hopes to increase the number of providers that will offer care not available in centers.

For more information, call Ragno at 841-4562.

CNO commends sea service unity

ARLINGTON, Va. (NNS) — The Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard are working together more closely today than they ever have before to confront the myriad threats America and its allies face around the world, Chief of Naval Operations (CNO) Adm. Vern Clark said during a Sept. 7 panel of sea service leaders.

Appearing together with Marine Corps Commandant Gen. Michael Hagee and Coast Guard Commandant Adm. Thomas Collins, the CNO told the Marine Corps Association and U.S. Naval Institute Forum that the current global threat environment is blurring the lines between the services, and the roles they play in the defense of the nation at home and aboard.

Navy-wide news

"People want to draw the world up in perfect, finite pieces. My view is the world doesn't exist that way today and will exist less that way in the future," Clark said. "We speak to this principle throughout our joint discussions, that we need to blur all of those lines because the world does not exist with great clarity to where I can say what's on this side of the line is mine and what's on this side of the line is (Coast Guard Commandant Adm. Thomas Collins) Tom's. It just isn't that kind of globe anymore."

SECNAV urges military to vote

WASHINGTON (NNS) — Secretary of the Navy (SECNAV) Gordon R. England urges every man and woman in the Navy and Marine Corps, civilian personnel and their families to register, get an absentee ballot and cast a vote this election year.

"You wear the cloth of the nation, and defend democracy and the right of all Americans to vote," he said. "I encourage all of you to register and vote."

According to a post-election survey conducted by the Federal Voting Assistance Program (FVAP) on the 2000 general election, 68 percent of all naval personnel voted and 62 percent of all Marines voted. These percentages are below the Department of Defense average of 74 percent for that election.

SECNAV is challenging all hands to exceed the 2000 percentages, and show that the Navy and Marine Corps Team strongly believes in the democratic election process. The right to vote is a freedom granted to every civilian, Sailor and Marine and should be exercised Nov. 2, he said.

According to Polli Brunelli, the FVAP director, the importance of the 2004 election cannot be overstated.

"The offices of President and Vice President, 34 senators, the entire House of Representatives, 13 governors, and hundreds of local officials will be elected this year," she said. "The Department of Defense is dedicated to the rights of its members to remain a part of the electorate wherever the defense of our nation requires them to be, and we encourage everyone to participate in the elections."

Physician offers new body armor

WASHINGTON (NNS) — Navy Orthopedist Capt. Marlene DeMaio received the Frank Brown Berry Award in Federal Health Care in August in recognition of her research and development of better body armor for Marines in combat zones.

Awarded annually by U.S. Medicine magazine, in partnership with Delta Dental, the Brown Berry Award recognizes an outstanding contribution to medicine emanating from the federal sector.

DeMaio's project, completed while she was assigned to the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, focused on evaluating three different types of body armor systems. DeMaio and her team of medical doctors, engineers, corpsmen and technicians, knew that protective gear was effective, but military weapons could cause injuries behind the armor.

Non-penetrating ballistic injury can cause "soft tissue damage" when the energy from the bullets hit the person's chest. The Interceptor plate provided the best protection from high velocity rounds. As a result of the research, Interceptor was then fielded to Kosovo and Afghanistan. Interceptor is the armor system being used in Iraq.

"The project was a team effort to validate the efficacy of the Interceptor body armor system, and to gather information to develop and improve body armor," said DeMaio. "It is saving lives, by all accounts." The award is open to federal health professionals from all fields, including research, administration and clinical practice.

Besides an award certificate, DeMaio is featured in this month's issue of U.S. Medicine magazine. She also received a $10,000 cash award, which she is donating to research..
